APA 7TH EDITION

APA CITATION

What Does It Mean To "Use APA"?

1. Basics of ethical academic work. APA has a foundation in academic honesty and integrity. To uphold these terms, writers must provide citation of external ideas or sources, eliminate bias from their texts, and aim for objectivity.
2. Basics of document organization. APA provides writers with organizational tactics for sections of a text as well as standard formatting guidelines for academic texts, including formatting for the title page, table of contents, and tables and/or figures.
3. Basics of citation. APA promotes the author/year writing process, wherein ideas from external sources are immediately cited in-text, using the year of publication.

CHAPTER 4-WRITING STYLE AND GRAMMAR

Use singular “they” 4.18

Singular “they” is inclusive of all people and helps writers avoid making assumptions about gender.

Singular “they” includes these forms: They, Them, Their, Theirs, Themselves

X A researcher’s career depends on how often he is cited.

✓ A researcher’s career depends on how often they are cited.

X Each examiner submitted his or her assessment.

✓ Each examiner submitted their assessment

CHAPTER 4 - ANTHROPOMORPHISM

- Anthropomorphism (4.11)

Improved guidance and specific examples help authors determine what does and does not constitute anthropomorphism

- Anthropomorphism is attributing human characteristics to animals or inanimate sources.

✗ Rat couples (implies parallel between human romantic couples)

✓ Pairs of rats

✗ The theory concludes (the researchers conclude, not the theory)

✓ The theory addresses (a theory can address, indicate, or present)

- *What constitutes anthropomorphism is challenging, and even scholars sometimes disagree.
Aim to communicate as clearly as possible without causing confusion.

CHAPTER 6-MECHANICS OF STYLE

Break that habit!

- Use only one space after a period (or other punctuation) at the end of a sentence. (6.1)

Other notable changes:

- Use double quotation marks to refer to a letter, word, phrase, or sentence as a linguistic example or as itself. (6.7)
 - ✓ the letter “m”
 - ✓ the singular “they”
 - ✓ answered “yes” or “no”
- Preferred spelling for common technology (6.11)
 - ✓ email (no hyphen)
 - ✓ internet (not capitalized)
 - ✓ webpage (all one word)
- Expanded guidance on use, definitions, and format of abbreviations (6.24)

CHAPTER 8-IN TEXT CITATIONS AND AUDIOVISUAL WORKS

In-text citations are shortened 8.17 (Table 8.1)

For works with three or more authors, use et al. for all in-text citations. Previous:

✗ First use (Taylor, Kotler, & Johnson, 2019); Subsequent uses (Taylor et al., 2018)

New:

✓ (Taylor et al., 2018)

Quote Audiovisual Works 8.28

When quoting from audiovisual works such as TED Talks, YouTube, audio-books, etc., provide a time stamp for the beginning of the quotation in place of a page number.

✓ “[quoted material]” (Smith, 2017, 4:34).

SECONDARY SOURCES

Citing Secondary Sources 8.6

Include the dates of both the secondary and original work.

Example: You read a work by Jones (2015) in which Cotter (2000) was cited, and you can't locate Cotter's work.

Cite is as follows:

✓ (Cotter, 2000, as cited in Jones, 2015)

If year of primary source is unknown, leave it out.

✓ Cotter's (as cited in Jones, 2015) findings ...

In both cases, only the source you read appears in the reference list-Jones in this scenario

REFERENCE PAGE

Connecting citations and references:

- Anything you have cited in your text must also have a reference entry on your references page (and vice versa).
- The purpose of a reference list is to provide readers with a list of the sources cited in your text so that they can easily access or refer to your sources.
- Reference entries follow the same author, year format of in-text citations, but what comes next?
 - ✓ The answer varies for each type of reference entry
 - ✓ Include as much information about a source as you can find
 - ✓ Follow formatting rules for type of source

APA REFERENCE PAGE CHECKLIST

Things to remember about the reference page:

- ❖ The word References should appear centered at the top of the page
- ❖ Entries are double-spaced and have a hanging indent
- ❖ Entries are alphabetized by author (last name)
- ❖ Each entry is complete and accurate (take the time)
- ❖ DOI is always included when available
- ❖ Including links is a choice, but be consistent either way

Proper citing and referencing of sources gives proper credit to the original author(s) and helps you carry out your writing with academic integrity and honesty.

REFERENCE LABEL

Bold the title References on the first line of your reference page. *Note:
Running head included only for dissertations.

DOIS AND URLS

Presentation of DOIs (Digital Object Identifier) and URLs:

DOI is a static identifier (number) for published articles online.

- ✓ Use the DOI in your reference entry if one exists
- ✓ In the reference entry, doi is lowercase, followed by a colon and the number (no space)
- ✓ Present both DOIs and URLs as hyperlinks

DOIs begin with the prefix <https://doi.org/>

X doi: 10.1080/02626667.2018.1560449

✓ <https://doi.org/10.1080/02626667.2018.1560449>

No DOI 9.34 & 10.1

No DOI for online work:

From website that readers can access, provide the URL at end of entry

✓ <http://xxxxx>

From academic research database, do not include URL or database information (will look like print version)

GIVE PROPER CREDIT WITH CITATIONS

☐ When and why to cite using APA citations

Any time you are including information and ideas in your paper that are not your own, you must include a citation.

☐ What about “common knowledge?”

Look for that “knowledge” in a reputable source and cite it.

☐ What about your own professional experience?

Unless assignment instructions say otherwise, look for a reputable source that supports your experience.

In-text citations provide readers with the information needed to understand and access information in your paper that is not original to you.

☐ Cite as often as needed so that it is very clear to your readers which information came from which source

CITATIONS-NARRATIVE

- Narrative citation (signal phrase) – author portion of citation is included within the text of the sentence immediately followed by the year of publication in parentheses.
 - Signal phrases tell the reader the information/ideas being discussed are borrowed from the source.
 - Signal phrases use APA citation and past tense verbs.
 - When there is more than one author, include the word “and” before the last author’s name.
- Vary use of different signal phrases and verbs
 - Smith (2018) provided an analysis of ...
 - According to Smith (2018) ...
 - Washington (2018) provided an analysis of ...
 - According to McCann and Townsend (2017), ...
 - The rationale, as described by Sorensen (2016), ...
 - As Jones (2015) noted ...
 - Jones, Smith, and Sorensen (2016) argued ...

Signal phrase citation with direct quote

- Moreover, Washington (2018) added “[quoted text...]” (p. 37).

CITATIONS-PARENTHETICAL

Parenthetical citations occur when writers include ideas from another source, but do not mention the author in the text of the sentence.

- Include author's last name(s), year of publication, and (when necessary) the page number all in parentheses.
- When there is more than one author, include an ampersand (&) before the last author's name.
- Parenthetical citation – citation is at the end of the sentence in parentheses

Examples of parenthetical citations:

- [Written text]... (McCann & Townsend, 2017).
- [Written text]... (Smith et al., 2015).
- The analysis suggested... (Smith, 2018)

Parenthetical citation with direct quote:

- "[Quoted text...]" (McCann, Sorensen, & Townsend, 2017, p. 23).
